

Many stories - One voice

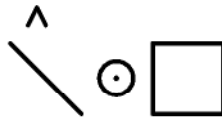

Writing Contest

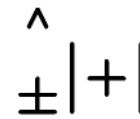

People who use AAC* are invited to write a short story, poem, or essay for children or adults, featuring AAC.

Write it!

Draw it!

Share it!

Stories can be submitted to ISAAC in words, artwork, cartoons, photographs or other written or visual medium. All written stories should be limited to 500 words and capable of being read at one sitting.

The Communication Matters (ISAAC UK) Board of Trustees will invite 3 UK entrants to tell their stories at a story reading in London during October 2008, ISAAC International Awareness Month.

All stories from around the world will be compiled into an online publication and available to be read during 2008 International AAC Awareness Month events. Select stories will be highlighted at ISAAC's 13th Biennial Conference in Montreal, Canada.

Send ISAAC your story by 13 June 2008
Contest Guidelines at: www.aacawareness.org

*AAC means Augmentative and Alternative Communication, the many ways to help people who cannot speak or write - like electronic talking aids, computers, books and boards with pictures or letters, and sign language.

If you would like to see this poster with the support of WLS, LLL or Bliss symbols go to www.communicationmatters.org.uk/writingcontest